Jeff Hatch has combined a career in financial management and communications with public policy involvement as a founder of the Coalition for Utah's Future and Envision Utah. During his 2 ½ years in office, Jeff has made upgrading the technology and tools used for financial and management information his top priority. Through Jeff's leadership, approval of a new tax administration system is nearly complete. Recent and regular updates to the website should allow residents to view budget information for all county organizations.

Jeff received his bachelor's degree in Communications from Stanford University. After completing a dual masters program in Journalism and Business Administration at Columbia University, he returned to Utah to join the family's media business. Responsibilities covered all aspects of management of newspaper, radio and television broadcasting and real estate properties, including serving as Chief Financial Officer for the combined companies and as President/General Manager of KUTV Channel 2 in Salt Lake. After CBS acquired KUTV in 1995, Jeff became Executive Director of the Utah Information Technology Foundation, managing a Department of Labor grant for retraining displaced IT professionals. In 1998, Jeff Hatch acquired the Murray and Valley Eagle newspapers restoring the Green Sheet name and reviving local community news. After selling the newspaper late in 2000, Jeff started consulting in marketing and established a financial planning practice with Lincoln Financial Advisors.

Highlights of Jeff Hatch's community service include 20 years as officer and Director of Coalition for Utah's Future and Envision Utah, 8 years as a trustee of Southern Utah, Chairman of Pioneer Craft House in South Salt Lake City, and membership in the Salt Lake City Rotary Club. He has participated in political campaigns of many Democrats, from Congressman Wayne Owens to Mayor Peter Corroon.

Jeff is married to Margaret "Peggy" Hatch, a psychologist with a private practice in Salt Lake City. They have three children, Evelyn, Christine, and Andrew, and three grandchildren. In his spare time, Jeff enjoys classical music, backcountry skiing and hiking.

Bruce Larsen has served as the Chief Deputy Auditor since April 16, 2007. Prior to his work with Salt Lake County, Bruce was the manager of Compliance and Internal Audit for Mrs. Field's Famous Brands. He spent many years working for the Utah State Tax Commission, PacifiCorp, and Recapture Consulting. He is currently a member of the Institute of Internal Auditors as well as a board member of Utah Power Credit Union.

Bruce and his wife Callie live in Draper. They have three children and 12 grandchildren. Bruce graduated from the University of Utah and is a Certified Internal Auditor. In his spare time he enjoys traveling, golfing, and working in his yard.

Mary Ann Morehouse graduated from the University of Memphis in 1979 with a Bachelor's degree in Education and taught in a Creative and Performing Arts School there. For 18 months of her life, Mary Ann lived outside of the United States as she served a mission for her church to Finland. Drawing on her love of numbers, Mary Ann worked for Skaggs Drugs performing a variety of duties including managing accounts, marketing, and conducting corporate training.

In addition to her experience in the private sector, Mary Ann has several years of experience in government providing liaison and administrative services for the Assessor, Treasurer, Attorney, and Sheriff's offices. She is currently pursuing her degree in Accounting from Western Governors University.

Mary Ann enjoys mentoring youth in drama programs in the Salt Lake Valley and volunteers her time as a judge for the Performing Arts Awards within the Granite School District. She is also a Regional and State Drama Judge for the Utah Theater Association. Mary Ann has traveled throughout Utah judging Jazz and Clogging competitions and judged the Western National Clogging Competitions held annually at Lagoon for a number of years. She has volunteered her time serving on the Days of '47 Parade Committee as a Section Leader and Fundraiser.

When not volunteering, working for the taxpayers or studying, Mary Ann can be found writing, producing, directing, choreographing, and staging local community productions. The highlight of her life, so far, came when she was selected as one of the few locals hired as a member of Don Mischer's 2002 Winter Olympics Opening and Closing Ceremonies Production Team.

Stephen G. Spencer graduated from the University of Utah in 1972 with a B.S. degree in Accounting. After graduating, Steve began public accounting work with Price Waterhouse (now Price Waterhouse Coopers). After several years experience as Controller at C.R. England Trucking company, Steve moved into a fiscal position in local government (Salt Lake County), where he has been the Director of the Accounting and Operations Division in the Auditor's Office for more than twenty-five years. As Director, Steve supervises the General Accounting function, as well as Accounts Payable, Payroll, and Capital Asset accounting. Steve completed an MBA degree in 1999 at Utah State University, under the program sponsored by the Utah Association of CPAs. He is a past member of the UACPA State and Local Government Committee, where he served as Chair. Steve has been a member of the UACPA since 1975, and a member of the American Institute of CPAs since 1977.

Steve and his wife Jill are Utah natives. They resided in California for a few years, and have lived in Cottonwood Heights for more than thirty years. Their family consists of five children and ten grandchildren. Steve's interests include cycling, hiking, swimming, gardening, reading (especially history and other non-fiction), family activities and church/community service.

James B. Wightman traveled the world before he came home to Utah. In the U. S. Army, he served in (West) Germany and Texas. As a tax analyst for El Paso Natural Gas he worked in Paris, France, and Algeria, North Africa. Jim has several degrees and certifications, including: a B.S. in Management - University of Utah, an MBA - Utah State, a M.S. - Accounting – B. Y. U. He has been a licensed C. P. A since 1983, and recently passed the Certified Information Systems Auditor (CISA) examination. Jim was a partner in an Ogden CPA firm and held management positions with American Express and Zions Bank, before being recruited to direct Internal Audit in July 2000. During his tenure, examinations of County agencies’ operations and contractual relationships have contributed to policy development, operational improvements and millions in savings. Internal controls were improved and savings achieved in the Jail, Fine Arts, Parks & Recreation, Public Works, Fleet, Contracts & Procurement, the Recorder’s office, and Valley Mental Health. Most recently, Jim spearheaded a new information technology (IT) audit function which analyzes how well the County’s IT resources and systems are supporting its major business processes.

Jim and his wife, Elaine, live in Bountiful, Utah, and enjoy visits from their children and grandchildren. They love to travel, garden, and support University of Utah football. Jim and Elaine have been actively involved in public service with the Bonneville Exchange Club since 1984. Jim has also served on the boards of the Ogden-Weber County Humane Society, Primary Children’s Hospital Foundation, and the Lake Bonneville Council of the Boy Scouts of America.

Lance R. Brown has been serving as the Director of Management and Budget in the Auditor's office since January 2000. He began his career with Salt Lake County in the Internal Audit Division as a Deputy Auditor and later served as both the Assistant Director and Director of the Audit Division. Lance also has worked as a staff accountant with Arthur Young and served as an internal auditor for Questar Corporation. He graduated with a B.S. in Business Management from Brigham Young University, and a B.S. and MAcc in Accounting from Utah State University. Lance has also been a certified public accountant since 1987. He is currently a member of the Government Finance Officers Association, the Utah Association of Certified Public Accountants and the American Institute of CPAs.

Lance and his wife Lois have three children and reside in Sandy. In his spare time, Lance enjoys hiking, fishing, and spending time with family.

David L. Beck has a proven record of bi-partisan advocacy. He has worked for both Republican and Democratic Auditors, for both Republican and Democratic controlled Commissions/Councils, and both Republican and Democratic Mayors. He has nearly spent his entire career within the Auditor's office. A testament to Dave's commitment is the fact that after service as the Chief Deputy Auditor for ten years, he remained in the office taking the position as the Tax Division Director. Like other division directors, Dave started his career with Salt Lake County in the Internal Audit Division where he served as division director for five years.

Dave graduated from the University of Utah with a degree in accounting. Dave played baseball for the University of Utah and remains an avid Ute fan.
